The 'Prevent' Duty

What is the 'Prevent' duty?

The 'Prevent' duty came into effect on 1st July 2015 as part of the Government's Counter-Terrorism and Intelligence Act 2015. It is a duty for public authorities, including colleges, to have "due regard to the need to prevent people from being drawn into terrorism".

What is the 'Prevent' strategy?

The Government's 'Prevent' strategy aims to stop people being radicalised and covers a broad range of activities and initiatives. Sutton College support this strategy through our safeguarding policy.

Be SMART at Sutton College

S Safety

Do not give your home address, phone number or personal e-mail to other students at the College.

M Meetings

Take care when arranging to meet fellow students outside the College. Consider whether you know them well enough to meet them.

A Acceptable

Sutton College expects students to behave in a way that is in keeping with the British values of democracy, individual liberty, respect and rule of law.

R Respect

It is important to respect staff and fellow students while at the college.

T Tell

If the behaviour or comments of another student make you feel uncomfortable or if you see or hear anything that makes you feel uneasy or suspicious, please tell your tutor.

'Golden Rules' of E-Safety

- 1 Keep your personal details private. Do not give out your home address, phone number or personal e-mail address, or the personal details of anyone you might know. Only share your Sutton College e-mail address.
- 2 Do not give your Sutton College Google Classroom password to anyone else. Remember to 'Log-Out' whenever you have accessed your account.
- 3 Think about what you say or publish online and on Social Media (Facebook, Twitter, etc). Do not post any comments that are derogatory about people working or studying at Sutton College. If you read any comments that are detrimental to the College and/or a student or member of staff, please report it to Sutton College. Please do not upload photographs taken at the College or other information without the consent of those included. Sutton College cannot accept any responsibility for anything that is posted online by its students.
